Player Overview:

Annie:

Annie is the leader of Eterna, founding it after infinite was laid to rest. Annie is a hardworking and skilled builder, with her achievements not only being within the core Eterna bases, but as well as the server. She is a kind individual, not causing problems, and if she ever were to run into one, her subjects would quickly dispose of it.

Annies contributions to the server have mostly been shown, while other projects they are working on are soon to be released. Annie has been a huge help and wonderful builder with immaculate attention to detail as well as a crisp and creative building style. Every build she has lead has always came out above expectation.

Aside from direct server contribution, she contributes to her kingdom as well. She only seeks destruction when absolutely necessary, and always has a kind and gentle heart to their friends.

Tartaglia:

Tartaglia, or Dummy, is the harbinger of Eterna. He received this position shortly after meeting Annie, as they became quick friends. Tartaglia often handles diplomacy and war, killing those who pose even a minor threat or has previously harassed the group.
